The West Nova Scotia Story Museum expands regiment's heritage exhibit

Sergeant James Cowell

This story is one any number of young people residing in Western Nova Scotia may share: they could be in high school or a fresh graduate and have, for a multitude of reasons, found themselves in front of a recruiter with the West Nova Scotia Regiment. For some, at first, it is just a job; for others, a keen interest in the military or a sense of duty to one's country is behind their decision to sign on. No matter: what they join is one of the oldest and finest regiments in Canada.

The history of the WNSR may be traced back to the formation of the 40th Regiment of Foot (Prince of Wales Volunteers) August 23, 1717; from this noble regiment, and in the same year, came the 69th Annapolis Regiment and, in 1870, the 75th Lunenburg Regiment; both of which amalgamated in 1936 into what is proudly known today as the West Nova Scotia Regiment - or the West Novies, as they are often referred as.

You may have met many WNSR members and not even known it: for most, employment with the West Novies is a second job they perform after hours or on weekends and holidays. Your shop cashier may well be a corporal or sergeant later in the day, when they put on their WNSR uniform. The owner herself may be an officer in the Reserves of the Canadian Armed Forces. Young and old, from all walks of life, West Novies serve both at home and abroad, with aid

Showing off life in the WNSR

The West Nova Scotia Regiment is recruiting.

May 6 in Middleton, unit personnel manned a public display in the parking lot of the Independent Grocery Store, and at their home Armory around the corner.

There are many advantages to joining the Reserves now. To start with, aptitude, fitness and medical testing are all done at the WNSR's home, at 5th Canadian Division Support Base Detachment Aldershot: there is no more the need to go to Halifax for any of these requirements.

The Reserves' latest program is Full-time Summer Employment, a four-year contract that runs every year from May 1 to the end of August, during which you work and train full-time - when you are available, with pay.

And another note of interest:

completion of the Basic Military Qualification is now granted the equivalence of Grade 11.

If the Reserve life interests you, contact the unit and see what the Reserves can offer: this could be the first step to a great career, and one of the best things you will ever do.

In honour of these exceptional individuals, past and present, the MacDonald Museum in Middleton and the regiment formalized a heritage display May 6, turning a temporary Second World War Scout-Sniper Platoon display, first exhibited at the Kings County Museum in 2016 and then at the MacDonald Museum in 2017, where it was very well attended; into something more permanent.

The MacDonald Museum's most current exhibit, director Janice Slauenwhite said during its opening, recognizes a "very important part of the history of the Valley." The WNSR display now begins a five-year presence at the MacDonald Museum, setting out an enduring tribute with a wider scope of the contribu-

The importance of the WNSR's heritage and this expanded exhibit in the region was noted with the opening event's attendance, with dozens of past and present West Novies, Kings West MLA Leo Glavine, mayors Anna Allen of Windsor, Sandra Snow of Kentville and Sylvester Atkin-

RCAF airworthiness contract renewed

Calian Group Ltd. announced April 5 it has been awarded a contract renewal worth up to $20 million in support of the Royal Canadian Air Force's (RCAF) Airworthiness Program.

Calian will provide highly-skilled professionals with expertise in 66 different categories of aeronautics to help ensure Canada's military fleet flies safely and effectively. The first year of the contract starts immediately and will run to March 31, 2019. The contract award includes two additional option years, with an aggregate contract value of approximately $20 million over the three years.

Calian is initially providing professional airworthiness, engineering and program support services through a team of about 30 specialists, including civilians and veterans. They will provide services in mechanical engineering, propulsion, electrical engineering, weapons safety and cybersecurity. Calian has partnered with Valcom Consulting Group.

Calian is providing the RCAF with uniquely qualified experts who have sought-after signing authority to endorse changes and modifications to existing aircraft, as well as assessments of newly acquired aircraft. RCAF aircraft use complex, interconnected systems, and under the Airworthiness Program any modifications must be reviewed, analyzed and tested to ensure flight safety is not compromised. These airworthiness services are critical to flight safety and operational readiness for new and modernized aircraft, including the Airbus C295W, CH148 Cyclone helicopter, CP140 Aurora, CH146 Griffon helicopter, CH147 Chinook helicopter, CH149 Cormorant helicopter, CC130 Hercules and CF118 Hornet fighter.

Events celebrate Indigenous awareness, unity and military mark

14 Wing Greenwood is ready to mark Indigenous Awareness Week, May 22 to 25, raising the Mi'kmaq flag at the base's front gate May 22 at 8 a.m. to start a schedule of special events marking the theme, "Dancing in Unison."

Lieutenant-Colonel Bernie Thorne, commanding officer, 415 (Long Range Patrol Force Development) Squadron; is the champion for 14 Wing's Indigenous initiatives, and invites the local defence team to take in ceremonial and cultural events planned to celebrate the diversity of culture, tradition and values of the First Nations, Inuit and Metis peoples. 14 Wing events are organized by the base's Defense Aboriginal Advisory Group.

May 24, Chief Petty Officer Second Class (retired) Debbie Eisan, an Ojibway Anishinabe kwe elder from Halifax's Mi'kmaq Native Friendship Centre, will visit. She is a member of the Indigenous Council of Elders at Dalhousie University and a member of the Advisory Committee for Care and Compassion to the Minister of Veterans Affairs. Her 36-year military career included numerous tours of duty, highlighted by involvement in the close-out operation of the United Nations base in Rwanda and seven months aboard the HMCS Iroquois in the Arabian Sea. In 2012, she was presented the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal for her work advocating and bringing cultural awareness for Aboriginal people serving within the Canadian Armed Forces.

Eisan will lead a blanket exercise in the Annapolis Mess from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The experiential activity, developed in 1996, helps participants understand the historic and contemporary relationship between Canada's Indigenous and non-Indigenous peoples in a friendly and interactive setting. To start, the floor is covered with blankets and people move around, representing Indigenous use of land in Canada before the arrival of Europeans. With the introduction of historic milestones through their growing interactions, the shrinking expanse of blankets and presence of people "living" on those spaces represents the impact of one culture upon another. Wing executive will be taking part, and observers are welcome. The event will include a smudging ceremony, the traditional burning of medicines gathered from the earth, typically sage, cedar, tobacco and sweetgrass – the four sacred First Nations' medicines. Smudging is a meditative ritual that encourages good thoughts and deeds, clearing the mind, the eyes, ears and mouths of negative energies; with a number of different cultural uses and practical variations.

For information on 14 Wing's Defense Aboriginal Advisory Group, and how to become involved in its education and special event programs, contact either co-chair Keith Howell (404 Squadron) or Aviator Brooke Taylor (405 Squadron). Both Indigenous and non-Indigenous people are welcome to join in a range of activities on base and farther afield, including quarterly trips to Halifax for regional meetings, representation at the national DAAG event in Ottawa, regional pow wows and a visit to the 12 Wing Shearwater sweat lodge. These programs are open to anyone with an interest in expanding their own cultural awareness.

Indigenous peoples have a proud tradition of service in the Canadian military. Participation in Indigenous Awareness Week provides an opportunity for all Canadian Armed Forces members to recognize and celebrate the numerous and impressive success and achievements that Indigenous people have made – and continue to make within the CAF and the Department of National Defence.

New commander for RCAF

The new commander of the RCAF, Lieutenant-General Al Meinzinger, assumed command May 4 from Lieutenant-General Mike Hood at a ceremony held at the Canada Aviation and Space Museum in Ottawa, presided over by General Jonathan Vance, chief of the defence staff.

“I am deeply honoured to accept command of the Royal Canadian Air Force from Lieutenant-General Hood, who has led the RCAF and served his country with passion, commitment and vision,” said Meinzinger. “I am privileged and proud to lead the members of this distinguished national institution. I assume this command with the knowledge, however, that we have much work left to do and that, as we move forward, ‘People, Policy, Program and Posture’ will be our anchor points.”

Meinzinger enrolled in the Canadian Armed Forces in 1985. In 2006, he assumed command of 403 Helicopter Operational Training Squadron. In 2011, he deployed

Middleton Relay for Life set for June 2

The 2018 Middleton Relay for Life will take place at the Middleton & District Arena June 2, between 5 p.m. and 11 p.m. Plans are well underway to make this year’s event a fundraising success, and a special time for all participants.

Just as with cancer, at a Relay for Life event, no one faces the challenge alone. The relay brings together teams of family, friends and colleagues am confident that same level of excellence will continue. I am equally confident that Lieutenant-General Meinzinger will command the RCAF with skill and dedication in the years to come.”

The RCAF provides the Canadian Armed Forces with relevant, responsive and effective air power capabilities to meet the defence challenges of today and into the future. The commander of the RCAF ensures that trained personnel, along with the necessary equipment and support, are available and ready to carry out air operations in Canada, in North America and around the world when called upon by the Government of Canada. The RCAF provides support to organizations such as the Royal Canadian Navy, Canadian Army, Canadian Joint Operations Command, NORAD, NATO and the United Nations.

The RCAF comprises 13 wings as well as other entities, located across Canada. The wings conduct Air Force operations and training under the direction of the commanders of 1 and 2 Canadian Air Divisions (as well as the Canadian NORAD Region). In addition, the RCAF Aerospace Warfare Centre has recently been confirmed as the third pillar of the RCAF’s organization, driving change and enabling innovation and transformation.

The RCAF includes approximately 12,000 Regular Force personnel and 2,100 Air Reserve personnel (Primary Reserve and officers of the Cadet Instructor Cadre). Approximately 1,500 civilian public servants are employed within the RCAF organization.

If you are a cancer survivor, cancer-free or living with the disease, you are invited to register as a survivor. You will be honoured and celebrated at a reception following your victory lap. The luminary ceremony will take place at 8 p.m., a special way to honour and remember loved ones.

Those taking a break from walking can check out the entertainment and many activities, or relax. Event highlights include performances by local bands, the Precision dance group and the King’s Chorale Children’s Chorus; bingo, a ticket auction, minute-to-win-it games, zumba and more.

SAR crews keep on pace with calls

May 10, the Halifax Joint Rescue Coordination Centre tasked a 14 Wing Greenwood Hercules from 413 (Transport and Rescue) Squadron just after 10 p.m. to Notre Dame Bay, off the north shore of Newfoundland, in aid of a disabled vessel. The aircraft crew gained contact with the vessel and helped talk in a Coast Guard vessel. The Hercules was stood down shortly afterwards, returning to Greenwood just after midnight May 11.

May 11, just after 8 a.m., a 14 Wing Hercules and the Lifeboat Station Cape Edensaw were tasked to search an area east of Miramichi after an unidentified vessel was heard taking on water, losing communications soon afterward. The vessel was found to be along-side and safe, and all assets stood down. The Hercules landed back in Greenwood just after 10 a.m.

May 13, just before 6:30 a.m., a Cormorant helicopter left 14 Wing on a mission to hoist an individual experiencing heart attack symptoms from a 35-foot fishing vessel 40 miles west of Greenwood. The individual moved to shore via boat transfer, and the Cormorant stood down about an hour after the call out.

May 15, around 2:30 a.m., a Cormorant was tasked by JRCC Halifax to conduct a search for an overdue boat on Grand Lake, in the vicinity of the Halifax airport, with two individuals on board. Shortly after the call out, the helicopter was stood down: the boat and passengers were found, having broken down on the lake, and were being towed in.

How to get rid of bathroom ceiling mould

(NC) Many Canadian bathroom ceilings grow mould, but simply rolling on new paint won’t make your ceiling look great again. For lasting success, you need to follow the multi-step process below.

Start by killing ceiling mould with a registered non-bleach fungicide, then use a four-inch-wide putty knife to scrape loose paint. Show no mercy - everything that’s not solid needs to go. Sanding will help with this, too. Do this by hand or use a quarter-sheet electric finishing sander with 120-grit sandpaper. Wear a dust mask and safety glasses. Sanding often highlights loose areas you missed, so keep your putty knife handy. Next, use your putty knife to apply a skim coat of drywall repair compound over low areas where paint flakes used to be. Extend the compound three or four inches past the point where sound paint begins. Let the compound dry for 12 hours, then use an abrasive sponge to smooth the area and feather the edges where repair compound meets solid paint. You’ll probably need to patch and sand a second time to repair all damage. Coat the ceiling with a stain-blocking primer to encapsulate the dead mould, then apply a mildew-resistant ceiling paint. Now that you have that mould under control and a fresh coat of paint on your ceiling, take steps to prevent mould growth in the first place. Under-sized exhaust fans are the main reason many bathrooms grow mould. Assuming an eight-foot ceiling, fan capacity in cubic feet per minute needs to match or exceed the square footage of your bathroom. For example, a 100-square foot bathroom needs at least a 100 cubic feet per minute fan. If you need help, check out the Canadian Home Builder’s Association for free information on how to find reputable contractors. Find more information at www.getitinwriting.ca.

Tips to keep out pests during home renovations

(NC) Planning a remodel is an exciting time for many homeowners, as they design a fresh look for their space. While there may not be a Pinterest board dedicated to it yet, home renovations are also the perfect time to boost your home's defence against pest invaders.

"It's a good idea to take steps during renovations to make your home less hospitable to pests," suggests Dr. Alice Sinia, resident entomologist for Orkin Canada. "This form of proactive pest management is a highly effective, environmentally responsible solution to pest issues."

Consider the following tips while updating your home:

- Prepare the land. The first step to pest prevention while undergoing construction on your property is to grate the land so puddles do not form around your home's foundation. Standing water can serve as a breeding site for mosquitoes and damp, disturbed soil can attract subterranean
- Landscaping. While planting new shrubbery, make sure it is at least two feet away from your home, as branches and leaves can easily serve as bridges for insects and pests to crawl from vegetation to foundation. Avoid plants that produce fruits, especially berries, as they attract pests to your property.
- Lighting. Install LED lights outside your home, as pests are less attracted to them than typical bulbs. This will help keep flying insects away from your doors.
- Seal out pests. Ensure all doors and windows are flush against frames, and install weather stripping to help prevent small pests from squeezing their way inside. Identify unscreened vents, gaps around utility lines, cracks in walls or the building foundation and seal them with appropriate sealants.

For more customized tips and solutions, contact your local pest management professional.

Les produits de la chèvre gagnent en popularité

(EN) Si on vous demande de nommer des sources alimentaires animales, la plupart d'entre nous peuvent en énumérer certaines parmi les plus évidentes, dont la vache (viande et produits laitiers), le porc (viande) et le poulet (viande et œufs). Mais saviez-vous qu'un grand nombre d'agriculteurs canadiens font aussi l'élevage d'autres animaux? Parmi ceux qui sont élevés pour la consommation, on retrouve le lapin, le bison, le chevreuil, le gibier à plumes (faisan) et la chèvre.

Le Canada offre un grand marché pour les produits de la chèvre. À un certain moment de leur vie, la plupart des gens ont probablement déjà mangé du fromage de chèvre fabriqué avec du lait de chèvre ou même porté des vêtements fabriqués de laine angora (fibres de chèvre). On constate aussi une demande pour de la viande de chèvre. En fait, le nombre de chèvres au Canada a presque doublé depuis 1996, ce qui est principalement attribuable à la hausse de la demande des consommateurs issus de différentes origines ethniques (croates, jamaïcaines, italiennes et indiennes) qui suivent souvent des traditions sociales et religieuses de consommation de viande de chèvre. Certains Canadiens qui ont déjà voyagé à l'étranger ont développé un goût pour cette viande. Alors que les éleveurs de chèvre peuvent se situer dans quelconque province ou territoire, la viande de chèvre est habituellement destinée aux grands marchés urbains.

Les éleveurs de chèvre devront bientôt se conformer à la nouvelle réglementation en vertu de la Loi sur la santé des animaux du Canada. La nouvelle réglementation prévoit l'identification et la traçabilité des animaux. Ces changements signifient qu'un plus grand nombre d'éleveurs devront se conformer aux exigences liées à l'identification des animaux et à leurs déplacements, et cela vient par ailleurs renforcer la solidité du système de la santé des animaux et de la salubrité des aliments. Le porc fait déjà partie du système de traçabilité intégrale, et d'autres groupes d'animaux d'élevage y seront bientôt intégrés. Cela veut dire que tous les producteurs de chèvre, indépendamment de la taille de leur exploitation agricole et du type d'élevage (viande, produits laitiers, fibres), devront se conformer aux nouveaux règlements. Les producteurs de chèvre peuvent trouver de plus amples renseignements au sujet de la nouvelle réglementation en communiquant avec la Fédération canadienne nationale la chèvre (www.cangoats.com).

Fun By The Numbers
Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Picking up sticks

Five-year-old Matthew Wade is an experienced helper, working alongside his grand-parents for the past couple years at both the Old and New Tremont cemeteries. May 12 was the annual spring cleanup, and over 20 people helped out, topping up graves, raking leaves and picking up the winter's debris – even clearing up two downed tree limbs which, miraculously, did not damage any monuments. This year, Wade made new friends as Erin Barney (eight) and her brother, Sean (seven) came to lend a hand. The maintenance of these two local cemeteries has continued on a volunteer basis since local residents formed the Tremont Community Cemetery Society and reclaimed the cemeteries in 2013. Anyone wanting to help out, or any group looking for a service project, may contact 902-765-2642.

Volunteers at the GMFRC make all the difference

The annual volunteer appreciation night, hosted by the Greenwood Military Family Resource Centre and 14 Wing Community Recreation Centre, was held April 19 at the Zedex Theatre. To celebrate, more than 100 volunteers were treated to a night at the movies, where the GMFRC and 14 Wing Community Recreation Centre staff served candy, popcorn, nachos and refreshments as a way to say thank you to our wonderful volunteers.

The GMFRC relies heavily on the amazing volunteer support and dedication essential to our success. It would be impossible to offer the same quantity and quality of programs and services without the support and generosity from the members of our volunteer team. For the 2017/ 2018 year, more than 2,500 hours of volunteer work were logged at the GMFRC, of which 1,000 were for child and youth programs and services, including tutoring and facilitation of programs.

GMFRC volunteers and employees are considered partners in the implementation of our mission and values. The relationship between the two parties is essential in maintaining the proper functioning of the centre and its programs; we are allies in the success of daily activities, as well as during major events. Whether it is a few hours invested throughout the year or one hour a week, each gesture makes a difference. The volunteering experience goes above and beyond the time given.

This is an opportunity for professional development, to strengthen one's sense of belonging, to develop a new skill set through teamwork and involvement and to become aware of the importance of a strong and united community.

The GMFRC is always looking for volunteers, ages 12 to 99! Volunteers enjoy various types of activities, such as sitting as a member on the GMFRC board of directors, facilitating weekly activities (Baby Group, Tumble Tots, etc.), assembling welcome packages and/ or parcels for the troops, and acting as a GMFRC ambassador during 14 Wing events or in the community.

Les bénévoles au CRFMG font toute la différence

Le 19 avril dernier a eu lieu au Cinéma Zedex la soirée annuelle d'appréciation des bénévoles du Centre de ressources pour les familles militaires de Greenwood et du Centre communautaire de la 14e Escadre. La contribution exemplaire de plus de 100 bénévoles a été soulignée par une soirée cinéma où les employés du CRFMG et du Centre communautaire ont traité leurs bénévoles aux petits oignons en leur offrant bonbons, mais soufflé, nachos, rafraichissements et plaisir afin de leur dire merci pour leur travail exceptionnel.

Le CRFMG considère qu'il est impératif de compter sur l'appui et le dévouement de ses bénévoles pour assurer son succès. Il serait impossible d'offrir autant de programmes et de services de qualité sans l'appui et la générosité des membres de notre équipe de bénévoles. Pour l'année 2017-2018, ce sont plus de 2500 heures de bénévolats qui ont été comptabilisées au CRFMG dont près de 1000 seulement pour les programmes et les services liés aux enfants et aux adolescents incluant du tutorat et de la médiation pour certains programmes.

Les bénévoles et les employés du CRFMG sont considérés comme des partenaires dans l'implémentation de notre mission et de nos valeurs. La relation entretenue entre les deux parties est essentielle dans le maintien du bon fonctionnement du centre et de ses programmes; nous sommes des alliés dans la réussite des activités quotidiennes autant que lors des grands événements. Qu'il s'agisse d'un investissement de temps de quelques heures par année ou d'une heure par semaine, chaque geste fait une différence. En effet, l'expérience du bénévolat va au-delà du temps donné. Il s'agit d'une occasion de se développer professionnellement; de fortifier son sentiment d'appartenance; de développer un sentiment de compétences à travers le travail d'équipe et l'implication; et de se sensibiliser à l'importance d'une communauté forte et unie.

En ce sens, la coordonnatrice des services de bénévolat tente le plus possible de proposer aux bénévoles actifs des expériences alliant leurs intérêts et leurs forces spécifiques. Le CRFMG est toujours à la recherche de bénévoles âgés de 12 à 99 ans! Les types d'activités auxquelles vous pourriez être invités à participer sont nombreuses et variées : membre du conseil d'administration du CRFMG, facilitateur des activités hebdomadaires (Bébé en groupe, Pirouettes et culbutes, etc.), l'assemblage des troussees de bienvenue et descolis pour les troupes, ambassadeurs du CRFMG lors d'événements sur la 14e Escadre ou dans la communauté.

Bands combine musical history, magical sound

Honorary Colonel Dan Hennessey, 14 Construction Engineering Squadron

Music resonated through historic Lunenburg April 29, as the Bridgewater Fire Department Band celebrated its 150th anniversary with a concert, “And The Band Played On.”

The venue for this impressive milestone was St. John’s Anglican Church, which offered both a beautiful setting and space for the band to be joined by the 14 Wing Greenwood Band. The 14 Wing Band is under the direction of Warrant Officer Jeff Campbell; the Bridgewater Fire Department Band is directed by Captain Wendell Eisener. They work separately leading up to the day of the concert but, on the day of the event, they make the transition from two bands to one look seamless. The combined ensemble opened the concert with the uplifting “Spirit of Pageantry,” by Percy Fletcher.

The Bridgewater Band took centre stage and entertained a full house with several marches, exciting fanfares and two pieces close to home. “Star Festival: A Short Folksong Reimagining,” was written by Lucas Oickle, a former member of the Bridgewater band now living in Japan. The band performed “St. Florian Chorale,” by Thomas Doss: appropriate, as Saint Florian is the patron saint of firefighters, many of which from this community helped battled a 2001 blaze at St. John’s - even carrying the altar to safety (they carried it back to its rightful place in 2005, when the church reopened).

The 14 Wing Band then delivered selections from “West Side Story,” by Leonard Ber-stein, and added in a little polka, with an outstanding trombone solo by Caroline Leverett. “Finale from Symphony No.3” featured Barbara Butler on the church piano and 14 Wing Band member Elizabeth Harwood on the grand Casavant organ, which filled the church with amazing sound.

Following a well-deserved intermission, the massed band performed two selections, “Flourish for Wind Band” and the “Coronation March,” with Butler on the grand church organ.

The Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia, His Honour The Honourable Arthur J LeBlanc (also the patron of the Bridgewater Fire Department Band), spoke about the band’s tremendous milestone and its contribution to the community, the province and Canada; as it has served as a musical ambassador.

LeBlanc, accompanied by Her Honour Mrs. Patsy LeBlanc, spoke of how the band has been a regular performer at the annual garden party, and how he looks forward to having them return.

The finale was a mixture of hand-clapping pieces and deeply emotional selections. The upbeat “Ordinary Day,” by Newfoundland’s Great Big Sea, had the entire audience, including the Vice Regal Party, on its feet clapping – an inspired kitchen party atmosphere. Eisener led his band through his own arrangement of “The Day thou Gavest,” described as an evening hymn; and, as Eisener stated, “this day has been 150 years in the making.” The selection featured the grand church organ, played by Butler, and bagpipes, played by Sandy MacMillan from the 14 Wing Pipes and Drums. The next selection was a unique arrangement, combining the traditional “Auld Lang Syne” and the haunting “Last Post.” This piece was adapted by former 14 Wing bandmaster Lieutenant Vincent Roy, and was first performed at a 2003 sunset ceremony at 14 Wing Greenwood.

The concert concluded with a rendition of “God Save the Queen,” composed by Gordon Jacob in 1953 for the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II, followed by “Regimental Marches.” The departure of the Vice Regal Party was short lived, as Their Honours remained at the rear of the church and spoke to audience members as they departed.
