Cross-Canada flight lands Japanese air force visitors in Greenwood

Sara White,
Managing editor

Adding a stop at 14 Wing Greenwood July 8 and 9, a 3rd Tactical Air Lift transport plane and crew recently worked their way halfway around the globe, from Japan to the United Kingdom.

The Japanese Air Self-Defence Force's Kawasaki C2 aircraft was heading to the UK as a participant in the annual Royal International Air Tattoo. Leaving Japan, the crew overnighted in Alaska, visited Greenwood for a night and a day, and were on their way late July 9.

While in Greenwood, Captain Ernie Kay, 405 (Long Range Patrol) Squadron tactical coordination officer, coordinated a series of briefings and tours to build a day of defence exchange program for the 17 Japanese air force visitors. The aircraft and crew had intended to stop at CFB Trenton, but runway work there shifted the Canadian stopover.

"We've organized a tour for them of the search and rescue squadron, as their aircraft would be a light transport plane like our Hercules; and then we're touring 405 (Long Range Patrol) Squadron, to see a static of the Aurora," Kay said.

The visitors also spent time touring the Greenwood Military Aviation Museum, had lunch at the Annapolis Mess with invited base command team representatives and called upon 14 Air Maintenance Squadron Commanding Officer Lieutenant-Colonel Amy Tsai-Lamoureux, acting wing commander.

Major Kojiro Tonosaki, Defense Plans/ Policies and Programs Division, said it was most of the crew's first time in Nova Scotia – for what little they saw of it with a late night arrival, a day on the wing and then a night time departure.

"There has not been a whole lot to see – very busy," Tonosaki said. He added the crew was keen to show off their aircraft in a bit of an "open house" for 14 Wing military members before they left, and they were happy to meet wing officials and talk about common business in ocean patrol work and search and rescue. The Japanese air force maintains 10 search and rescue stations, looking after a huge expanse of ocean off its own coast.

Kay envied the Japanese contingent as they were heading off to the UK: with decades of himself in the British Royal Air Force, he has attended many RIAT events, and knew this year's 100th anniversary of the RAF means the RIAT show will be "fabulous – very busy."

Combined mess effort 'big step forward'

Sara White,
Managing editor

Putting the party into the Annapolis Mess may be simpler in days to come.

A vote by members of 14 Wing Greenwood's three separate messes – Junior Ranks, Officers and Warrants and Sergeants – to join forces with the Annapolis Mess under one management structure was unanimously ratified at the messes' annual meeting June 27.

“That went a lot smoother than I thought it was going to go. This is a big step forward for the mess, the wing and the Royal Canadian Air Force itself,” said the incoming combined Annapolis Mess president, formerly the Junior Ranks' president, Master Corporal Nathan Crosby said. “We have a vision of what we want, and there will be stumbling blocks, but we're leading the way and we can be proud of what's happening here.”

The spring vote's results on the merge were as follows: Officers Mess – for 42, against 23; WOSM – for 159, against 22; and Junior Ranks – for 220, against 131.

Staging four messes' separate events in the past required volunteers, finances and participation from whoever was hosting; many events, in recent years, struggled, often opening to other messes in final efforts to ensure success.

The new combined Annapolis Mess will build from former volunteers of all ranks already in place. Crosby said “a lot of work” went into combining various bylaws and constitutions to support the new structure. He called for nominations from the floor for more volunteers for housing, entertainment and sports committee members.

“We have a bigger team now and can share the workload,” he said. “If you don't have all the time in the world, you can still take part and contribute.”

Ninety per cent of each of the previous messes' bank accounts will be pooled into the new mess, approximately $62,500; with remainders – all

Putting the social in the Mess

Sara White,
Managing editor

Social life and happenings at 14 Wing Greenwood's Annapolis mess have become, well, a lot more social.

Captain Jennifer Bass has taken on the role of developing the Officers' Mess social media platform and, by extension, the wider Annapolis Mess. That includes Facebook, Instagram and posters to be used on both – and pinned to good, old-fashioned bulletin boards.

“We need to match what we're doing to what people are doing,” Bass says, describing the Messes' move to a more active online presence. “We know people are deleting emails, and you'll still see posters up. We've already gotten some good, robust ideas on what people are looking at on the Facebook page, and we've been able to create events and allow people to invite friends, saying, ‘Hey, this is coming up, let's go to the Mess.’ We're seeing things get passed around. Word of mouth and people sharing will make an astounding difference.”

S. White

One of Bass' most recent posts has surprised her with its traction: a description of “semi-formal,” as people got ready to attend a recent scotch tasting event.

“People connected with that, and there have been changes to the rules of dress in the Mess. So, we can continue to do some more information posts.”

The Annapolis Mess and its member organizations have spent a great deal of time and effort in the past two years, trying to create a better Mess experience – from membership right up to the events and programs on offer. That also includes the winter renovations to the long-time, uninspired Back Bar, now the 14 Wing-themed Tow Bar.

“There's a lot of will from people to have the Mess succeed, and have other people want it to work. We've had some nice things happen, and there's a spirit behind it. This social media push is a way to continue to modernize.”

Cadets begin, build on experience

Captain Athena Nicholson, Greenwood Cadet Training Centre

Held on the 14 Wing Greenwood parade square, the opening marked the first official duty for Squires in her new post. As CTC WO1, she will help lead the entire CTC operation – a massive job for an 18-year-old, but one she feels more than ready for.

“I’m lucky to have such a great team of five warrant officers working with me this summer,” says Squires. Although confident in her skills, and an experienced staff Cadet in her second summer at the CTC, she’s quick to point out a leader only succeeds through the strength of her team.

“They’ve already shown how successful we can be together, with teamwork and an open mind.

This will be Squires’ final summer as an Air Cadet, completing her local training program with 514 Kinsmen Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron in St. John’s. She’ll be moving onto the next phase of her life: attending Memorial University to study science on a $30,000 partial scholarship.

“I’m grateful to the Cadet program for teaching me so many invaluable life skills,” adds Squires. “When it came time to apply for scholarships, my Cadet service, community service and hard work at my home squadron and here at the CTC made me stand out from the crowd.”

Over 500 course Cadets arrived in Greenwood July 1 to start or continue their own journey. In total, nearly 950 Cadets will train with the CTC this summer. Those commuting around 14 Wing and the greater Greenwood area should expect to see increased number of Cadets in the green and dark blue T-shirt of both the Army and Air cadets.

The first week for the CTC has already been, busy with musician course Cadets booked early for the 59th Steer BBQ in Kingston July 14. For the latest updates from the CTC and where you’ll see cadets around the community next, join us on Facebook or Twitter by searching for “Greenwood Cadets.”

Canada Day fun under the sun

Greenwood community celebrations happened under a scorching sun July 1, but celebrants were not deterred. While ice-filled canoes helped event-goers stay cool, other courageous participants defied the record-breaking heat: the two-kilometre and five-kilometre runners, Greenwood youth soccer players, procession walkers and the Cool Moves BMX team all participated without incident. Conditions were perfect for a photo, made possible through John Saunders Photography and Film company, as the crowd tackled a “fill the flag” challenge. After delivering words of welcome in three languages, 14 Wing Greenwood Lieutenant-Colonel Bernie Thorne, with Wing Chief Warrant Officer Luc Edmond, walked the field, serving birthday cake to guests. Joining the choir for the opening ceremony were Kings West MLA Leo Glavine, Municipality of Kings Mayor Peter Muttart and district councillors Paul Spicer and Martha Armstrong, and Greenwood Village Commission Vice-Chair Robert Seaby. After warming up their voices, Greenwood Military Wives choir members joined the

Welcome to the Heart of the Valley

The 2018 Heart of the Valley Festival organizing committee is providing a great line up of events to help celebrate the 33rd year of the festival. This year will once again feature a great mix of old favorites and new exciting events, surely making it one to remember. Like last year, most events will take place in the Rotary Park.

Last year, The Heart of the Valley Festival, a completely volunteer driven event, became an award winning festival! The Heart of the Valley Festival was named 2017's winner of the Event Legacy Award at the Annapolis Valley Chamber of Commerce's eighth annual Annapolis Valley Events and Sport Tourism (AVESTA) Awards!

Festivals such as this are focused on promoting the community and the surrounding areas, while providing fun and entertainment for the entire family. Your input and ideas are always welcome and, if you wish, you may also volunteer to assist us around the weekend. As a not-for-profit festival, we are reliant upon our wonderful sponsors, volunteers and the community to make these events successful.

If you would like information, feel free to email us at festival@hotvf.ca.

Une visite royale

Le 19 juin, le Centre de ressources pour les familles militaires de Greenwood a organisé un thé enchanté pour quelques 10 enfants habillés de leurs plus beaux atours de prince et de princesses. Nos invités royaux ont pu déguster un assortiment de sandwiches et délicieuses bouchées tout en pratiquant leur révérence et leurs salutations. Ces types d'activités offerts aux enfants sont une belle opportunité pour eux de développer leurs habiletés sociales et de rencontrer d'autres enfants de leur âge. Si vous souhaitez en apprendre davantage sur nos prochaines activités pour les enfants, consultez notre site internet, notre page Facebook ou appelez-nous au 902-765-5611.

A royal visit

June 19, the Greenwood Military Family Resource Centre hosted an "enchanted tea party" for 10 excited children dressed in their finest prince and princess attire, as they participated in this popular annual activity. Royal guests enjoyed a delicious assortment of tea sandwiches and dainties before practicing their twirling and ballroom dancing skills. Activities such as this provide children with fun opportunities to develop social skills and meet other children their own age. If you would like to know more about upcoming activities for children, visit our website, our Facebook page or contact 902-765-5611.

West Kings' class of '18 marks success

West Kings District High School held its 61st graduation ceremonies at the West Kings school gym June 28. Guests were led by master of ceremonies principal Donna Griffin, and 156 grads marched in.

Following the singing of O' Canada, Griffin welcomed the assembly and introduced special guests, including Dave Jones, acting regional director for Annapolis Valley Regional Centre for Education; Kings County councillors Martha Armstrong and Paul Spicer; and Kings West MLA Leo Glavine, Minister of Communities, Cultures and Heritage. Carrie Gloade, the Mik'maq consultant for AVRCE, performed a First Nations' smudging ceremony.

Honour student Makayla Foster introduced guest speaker Kara Mazerolle, a former graduate of West Kings. Mazerolle addressed the graduates, speaking about her life experiences. She was thanked by Erin Green, honour student.

Griffin, with vice-principals Peter Gebhardt and Peter Morse, proceeded with the presentation of certificates to the graduates. The announcement of over $500,000 in scholarships, bursaries and special awards immediately followed. The ceremony concluded with the valedictory address by Oliver Cadrain.

Female athletes invited to try track, field

Athletics Nova Scotia launches its newest cross-provincial program, Female Athletics Academy this summer.

This free program is a track and field "try-it" for girls between the ages of eight and 14 years old. Athletics NS will visit 11 locations (with a potential of 14) across the province, hosting one-hour long sessions to teach the basics of running, jumping and throwing events. Programs manager Kelsey Fahie, as well as female volunteers who all have a history of competing in track and field at the club and/or varsity level, make up the instructional team.

Dates in Western Nova Scotia include Lower Sackville (Metropolitan Track and Field) July 24, 5 p.m. to 6 p.m.; Bridgetown Regional High School Field, August 7, 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.; Liverpool Regional High School Field, August 13, 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.; Yarmouth (École Secondaire Par-en-Bas Field), August 13, 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.; Shelburne Regional High School Field, August 14, 3 p.m. to 4 p.m.; and Bridgewater (Parkview Education Centre Field), August 14, 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Register by emailing Fahie, programs@athleticsnovascotia.ca. If you would like to volunteer, experienced high school and university athletes are welcome.

Congratulations, Class of 2018

The GMFRC celebrated the accomplishments of children attending the four-year-old preschool programs with a graduation ceremony June 22 for children and their families. The class of 2018 treated all in attendance to songs in French and English before receiving their well-deserved diplomas. The GMFRC is very proud of our little graduates, and wish them a fantastic summer before they begin the next chapter in their educational journey in September.

Félicitations à la classe de 2018

Le CRFMG célèbre l'accomplissement des élèves de son programme d'éducation préscolaire 4 ans lors d'une cérémonie de remise de diplômes bien spécial pour eux et leur famille le 22 juin. La classe de 2018 ont offert à l'assistance des comptines en français et en anglais avant de recevoir leur diplôme, hautement mérité. Le CRFMG est très fier de ses petits diplômés et leur souhaite un superbe été avant le début d'une autre belle aventure scolaire en septembre.

~ Obituary ~

WILLIAMSON, Vernon Roy,
HALIFAX, NS

In loving memory of my dad, Vernon Roy Williamson CD2, who passed away on July 8, 2018 after a long battle with cancer and other health issues along the way. Born, raised and educated in Halifax, N.S. He was predeceased by his parents Blair & Carrie Williamson, his wife Louise Williamson (nee Quevillon), his son David, his daughter Verna Marie Williamson and his sister Shirley Lockhart. Vern is survived by his daughter Dawn (Dave) Porter of Ottawa, two granddaughters Krista-Marie Porter of Vancouver and Isabelle Hope Porter of Ottawa, his loving companion Betty Hall of Chesterville and his brothers Blair (Arlene) Williamson of Kingston N.S and Allan Williamson of Dartmouth. Vern had a long and distinguished military career and served 38 years as an Aero Engine Technician. He began his military career in 1951 and retired in Greenwood, Nova Scotia in 1989. He completed two tours of duty in Europe 1957-1961 - 2(F) Wing Grostenquin France & 1967-1970 1 Wing Marville/Lahr Germany, plus another tour with the UN 116ATU Air Transport Unit May - Nov 1974. In 1994 Lou and Vern moved to Morewood, ON. Vern became heavily involved with the Royal Canadian Legion in Chesterville and he served as president from 1997-2000. During that time he was instrumental in having a new Legion built and paid for in 3 1/2 yrs. Another key accomplishment was having a monument constructed, honouring local military veterans from WWI, WWII, Korea, UN Missions, Peacekeeping and Afghanistan. The monument honours between 500 & 600 veterans. Vern was also a member of the CAVUNP, Blue Helmets and NATO Veterans of Canada.

His passing will leave an empty hole in our hearts & lives...I miss you dad!
