Reading, remembering

November 6, Corporal Mike Lundy visited the Greenwood Military Family Resource Centre's parent and tot morning group, bringing the Canadian book, "A Poppy is to Remember," for a shared reading in both English and French. The children made a special hand-tracing to add as leaves on a crafted wreath, including poppies. The MFRC's pre-school youth also added their artwork to the centre's Remembrance Day-themed wall display.

November 4 was, as usual, the day of the annual remembrance service at St. Mary's Church in Auburn for the combined parishes of Auburn, Berwick and Morden.

A large congregation saw a beautifully decorated nave and chancel, with national and representative flags hanging from the balcony. Standards mounted by representatives of the Kingston Royal Canadian Legion were on display at the foot of the choir steps, and many of those present were uniformed and/or wearing their medals in recognition of the occasion.

Colonel (retired) Brian Maclean opened the service, noting the graves of veterans in the church's cemetery had been marked with small Canadian flags. Members of the congregation were invited to lay their poppies on their stones after the service.

...cover background to remembrance, and that it was almost 100 year since the armistice was declared to end the First World War, the Reverend Mel Malton took over. Just prior to communion, wreathes were laid at the steps to the altar table by 14 Wing Greenwood Commander Colonel Mike Adamson and Wing Chief Warrant Officer Dan Campbell, followed by Kings West MLA Leo Glavine, RCMP Sergeant (retired) Baxter Upshall, also assisting as server; and by veteran members of the church community. Fellowship with refreshments followed, giving the wide range of visitors the opportunity to mingle. The day's next stop involved a dash across the "mountain" to the Bridgewater Baptist Church, to attend a special armistice concert of remembrance presented by the Bridgewater Fire Department Band, supplemented by some members of the 14 Wing Greenwood Bands. The band leader and conductor was the long-service Captain Wendell Eisener, who had created the musical program with John Cunningham, who had written a clever and emotional script. Set off by the famous "Nimrod," the program reflected the development of the First World War, with much emphasis on the unbeatable and almost unbelievable part played by members of the Canadian military. It is the writer's understanding, proportional to the national population at the time, Canada - and Newfoundland and Labrador is included, provided more troops than any other participating country from the old Empire and America. Music took in many of the well-known marching tunes, songs sung by and for the troops, and reflections on specific events and battles involving Canadian troops. Between various plays, much was said about volunteers from Bridgewater itself: many, sadly, losing their lives during battle - one only minutes before the armistice was declared. The evening was presented and narrated by Master of Ceremonies 14 Construction Engineering Squadron Honorary Colonel Dan Hennessey who, instead of being in his Royal Canadian Air Force uniform, was attired and medalled as a Second World War colonel. The evening was graced by the presence of The Honorable Arthur J. LeBlanc, 14 Construction Engineering Squadron Honorary Colonel Dan Hennessey, attired and medaled as a Second World War colonel, served as MC for the Bridgewater Fire Department Band's November 4 concert, Armistice.

Lunch launches wing's charitable campaign

14 Wing Greenwood's annual workplace charitable campaign launched October 26, as organizers invited everyone for lunch. The Mega Potluck raised $2,000 through freewill offerings by guests, a jail-your-boss event and a few contests. The Combined Charities projects continue through December, part of the larger Government Workplace Charitable Campaign. 14 Wing raises funds that are divided among dozens of local and regional non-profit organizations, including youth sports, service clubs, health organizations, animal welfare initiatives and school programs. With the CANFORGEN earlier this fall allowing military personnel to sport a beard, a past Combined Charities' staple will shift to allow members to paint their fingernails or wear a pony tail from November 13 through to February's base winter carnival. Participants must register with their unit chief and contribute $20 for the perk.

For another $20, military members may wear "civvies" to work on December weekdays, as the regular Friday "dress with a difference" campaign takes over the calendar. There's also an on-going raffle of coveted locker space at the 14 Wing Greenwood Fitness & Sports Centre: the base's Personnel Support Program has offered eight locker rentals as prizes for unit-level fundraising. Hundreds of base personnel – military and civilian – also take part in the pay allotment program: individuals sign on for amounts from as low as $5 per pay to whatever they wish, with the deductions coming off their 2019 pay cheques and a tax receipt provided as part of their annual statements. With this option, and with a one-time donation, members may direct their contribution be shared among all Combined Charities organizations, or particular projects on the list that touch home for them. The campaign's marquee event is still to come: the Festival of Trees. Base units and squadrons, with an invitation to the wider community's businesses and service organizations, decorate tabletop trees for a day of displays at the Annapolis Mess. Trees are often themed – from kitchen gadgets for holiday baking or hardware and tools to Disney-themed toys or video gaming to all-you-need for a BBQ or retail coupons and certificates. The value of a tree often runs between $250 and $500 – or more; but the event is just as fun to attend to check out the tree decorators' creativity. The trees are raffled, as visitors buy tickets

($2 for one, $5 for three, $10 for eight, $20 for 20) and drop them in the buckets of the ones they'd most like to win. This year's Festival of Trees is November 23, as trees are set up and available for (adult only) viewing from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.; and November 24, as the event opens at 10 a.m. for the public, with tickets available until the 3 p.m. draws. The 14 Wing Bands perform, along with family photo opportunities, 50/ 50 and more. For more information on the 2018 Combined Charities campaign, contact organizer Captain Sarah Fralick, sarah.fralick@forces.gc.ca.

Working safely, smartly for flight safety

Sara White,
Managing editor

Colonel John Alexander, Director of Flight Safety, delivered the agency's annual Flight Safety Briefing October 17 to 14 Wing Greenwood members in three sessions.

Leading Seaman C. Moon,
14 Wing Imaging

Workers come to work to do their work; most days, with the intention to do it well. “We see everyone doing what they do for good reasons, getting the job done,” said Colonel John Alexander, Director Flight Safety for the Royal Canadian Air Force. In his annual DFS briefing October 17 at 14 Wing Greenwood, he was obviously speaking to occurrences in the past year.

“We’re not making that many mistakes, to be honest – but bad days happen. I challenge you and leaders to look at why the choices workers make made sense to them. When we take a minor deviation from the standard, it may be OK and work out. When we take that second deviation, it normalizes what we’re doing. Do these decisions lead us to an accident?”

Alexander said record of flight safety investigations date back in the RCAF to 1946, and there are multiple human factors involved in many of the events: technique, procedure, attention, proficiency, attitude.

“Those are the top words that appear in the DFS files in the last year – they’re telling, but does it mean people are doing bad work? No. But, there is attention to detail and, when holes start opening up in your organization, accidents happen.”

An individual’s actions as a flight safety incident develops may be easier to determine through an investigation, but DFS is also asking, “are there ‘off ramps’ along the way where there were choices, places where the right information was not presented to arrive at a non-accident? If it made sense for that individual to make those choices, and we see that in our investigation, there’s something wrong with our organization.”

415 (Long Range Patrol Force Development) Squadron Lieutenant-Colonel Bernie Thorne encouraged 14 Wing personnel to “use your knowledge, your training and your experience to speak up.

“I know everyone here comes to do a good job every day – I love working with you and I love flying, and I trust you. But sometimes things happen. Flight safety and lessons learned – it’s not about observing them, it’s learning from them and not repeating them. The goal is to save lives and continue to provide the operational resources we have in the support of the protection of Canada.”

FRONTLINE UAV SUPPORT ROLES

Attention Career-transitioning Staff

MDA, a Maxar Technologies company, is an internationally recognized leader in space robotics, satellite antennas and subsystems, surveillance and intelligence systems, defence and maritime systems, and geospatial radar imagery. MDA has a number of challenging, exciting overseas opportunities in the leading edge field of Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (UAVs). These roles will be in direct support of the Canadian Armed Forces on land and at sea. Personnel will be expected to provide embedded support to the CAF's deployment needs. Personnel will receive substantial time off annually and a comprehensive compensation package.

Unmanned Aircraft Operators (UAOs)/ Unmanned Payload Operator (UAPO)

Operators will be trained to operate both the UA and the payloads. These roles will oversee mission planning tasks to meet CAF requirements, operate the UA and installed sensors, conduct post-flight briefings, and serve as MDA's assignment manager when assigned that role.

Unmanned Aircraft Technicians (UATs)

UA Technician roles will provide critical daily support for all aspects of the UAV Systems and support services when deployed. This includes the UA, sensors, payloads, ground systems and specialized ground equipment.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

There's too much going on for you to slow down just yet, Libra. Find that second wind and keep the pedal to the metal. This will be well worth it when the results unfold.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Strange dreams and intuition are not out of the ordinary for you, Scorpio. Hone in on what these messages may be trying to tell you. Good news could be around the corner.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

Sagittarius, this week you are feeling friendly toward everyone and striking up new friendships rather easily. Expect the party invitations to begin rolling in soon.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Take nothing at face value over the next few days, Capricorn. Before you invest time or money, do your fair share of detective work to see if things measure up.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Aquarius, some new information that will set your mind into orbit comes your way. This is news that you had not expected, so enjoy the surprise.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20

Pisces, newfound inspiration for creative projects, such as redecorating or improving your home, is headed your way in the coming days.

14 Wing Library - Serving those who read

Holly Pike and Melanie Proctor,
14 Wing Greenwood
Library

Looking for something to do now the darker nights of fall are here? November has seen lots of new books, movies and even some games arrive at the library. Stop by and check out some entertainment, or bring a friend and play games here!

Some of our recent new books include "The Woman in the Window," by A.J. Finn; "A Noise Downstairs," by Linwood Barclay; "Educated," by Tara Westover; "Dog Man," by Dave Pilkey; and "The Wonky Donkey," by Craig Smith. Some of the new DVDs include "Snow Dogs," "Book Club," "Solo: A Star Wars Story" and "Sherlock Gnomes."

Under The Story Tree will continue every Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. in the library. Bring your children of all ages to hear stories, play games, do crafts and make friends right here in our children's room.

The library's new Pokemon Club welcome party was a hit! We want to thank all the children and parents for coming - everyone had so much fun, we want to do it again! Join us every second Wednesday for snacks, card trading and a chance to play Pokemon with your cards (or learn how to play with our training decks). Pre-registration for each session is required. The next event is November 21, 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Knitting with Beth happens every Friday in the library's reading lounge. Make time to work on a project, learn from experienced knitters or browse our selection of yarn crafting books for inspiration.

Do you have a program you would like to suggest? We are always open to new ideas from our patrons.

And – volunteers are needed: the library is looking for adults interested in volunteering their time with the children's programs at the library. Reading opens doors, so come and open the doors of the 14 Wing Greenwood Library.

as you surf the books, DVDs, magazines and more at the 14 Wing Greenwood Library. No code or password needed to access a world of information: just use the "Library Guest" setting to access your free connection.
